CHOOSING UP SIDES

If it is any longer in doubt as to the lines drawn by President Roosevelt in his "state of the Union" speech recently, his address to the Jackson day dinner Wednesday night must have dispelled it. The chairman between the "little man" in industry or commerce or farming or private life, and the so-called representatives of "un-trenched greed" was very definitely marked.

The difficulty with such a line of demarcation is the inability of the average citizen to determine it with relation to himself. Some might define it as dividing all those existing in whole or in part on gratuity from the federal government, from those supplying the gratuities through taxes on income.

Others might say that the line divides between the American people as a voting whole and the 2 per cent of the population formerly charged with controlling the financial strings. If the "right" is the 95 per cent are to be weighed on the scale of the public ballot with the "entrenched greed" of Wall Street and the 2 per cent, naturally there can be no mistake about the way a popular election will go. Freedom of choice would be re-elected by a vote even more popular than that by which Herbert Hoover in 1928.

SOME GOOD PRACTICES TO WHICH FARMERS SHOULD GIVE ATTENTION IN 1936

A new year is here, and agricultural skies in Florida are much brighter than they have been for some time. Florida farmers have weathered a most difficult period, and it now seems probable that they will be able to make substantial progress during 1936.

There are things that will help us in our farming in 1936, and they should be given attention around the first of the year when we are making plans for future months. To mention all of them would hardly be possible in one short article, and, too, there are certain local problems which farmers in each section should study.

The supply of soil moisture is one of the determining factors in the success or failure of our crops. This was clearly demonstrated in the two or three years ago, when drought visited a large part of the United States. Of course we cannot regulate the rainfall, but we can help to conserve moisture for a dry period.

Water will determine the capacity of the soil for holding water more than vegetable matter or humus. Warm winters and abundance of rains at certain seasons result in rapid depletion of humus or vegetable matter in Florida soils. We need to keep growing legumes on our lands to supply vegetable matter. These legume crops also gather nitrogen from the air, and help to keep the soil fertile. They make the soil easier to cultivate, and furnish food for plants.

Many citrus groves in the state have irrigation systems to enable them to keep their trees supplied with adequate moisture at all times. This keeps the trees in good condition and tends toward balanced production each year.

Costs of production should be kept as low as possible. Sowing the crop to the land will not accomplish this, and only the better grades of land should be used for cultivated crops.

Marketing demands attention now more than ever before. It is likely that such high prices for citrus and other farm products as prevailed from 10 to 15 years ago will return again soon. Better

The Ladies Aid society met in regular session Wednesday afternoon in the church. The attendance was good. They have taken on the project of a Bible study in China which is a fine piece of Missionary work and shows how the church is interested in the world-wide work of the church.

Next Tuesday evening, Jan. 14, at 7:30, the Epworth League will be held at the Everglades Young Peoples Union. The union has been growing in interest since its organization in September, and it is hoped that all the young people groups about the Lake will join in this worthy movement. At this meeting the election of officers for the coming year will take place. All young folks, interested in the moral and spiritual welfare of the Glades are invited to join in this worthy movement.

Wednesday evening, Jan. 15th, Rev. R. Radcliffe and Rev. E. M. Cox will be with us to tell us of the missionary work going on in all the lands of Florida. These men are well versed in this subject and we promise a very interesting and instructive meeting. We invite you all to come. The hour is 7:30. Now that the holidays are over and the folks are back from vacation or the folks who were vacationing with us are gone, let us not forget the work of the church. The school must carry on. To mention all of them would hardly be possible in one short article, and, too, there are certain local problems which farmers in each section should study.

We should of course give our children the very best chance possible, and encourage them in their 4-14 club work which will help to make good farmers and farm women of them.

Too Late TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

And now the Florida Tax Revision League has been "poking" round among the statistics again and is all broke out in a fever on account of "discovery" that while the count of keepin' 'em "contented" in Florida has increased 404%, the 1934 average for the "bad" ones, an education has decreased 65%, and the league wants to know how come our four-legged dumb animals are more important than our two-legged ones.

"According to figures dug up by the league last week the cost of operating our schools from 1926-27 through 1933-34 has decreased from $20,262,672.22 to the mere pittance of $11,553,731. In that period, while at the same time the number of pupils has increased from 570,729 to 325,510.

The league points out that the children of today are the citizens of tomorrow and contends that it is more important to develop good citizens than to produce better livestock.

Maybe so, but if Florida is to maintain her supremacy from the standpoint of beefers on the high seas, we gotta get more money protectin' our cattle. Just imagine how we'd feel if we were to wake up some mornin' and find that California or some other enterpriser's commonwealth could put up with a higher tax on beef and beef highway costs than we have.

You gotta think of that. The thing is, the politicians know that the only hope they have of stayin' on the gravy-train depends on an abundance of "fat" on the hands of a flock of dumb voters on the other — so why wouldn't they be liberal with the tax on beef? And then they could support from the Federal government as well as the state and county.

Of course they might have to wind up by drownin' every third child or farmer, but the increased appropriations would more than offset that.

But if the Tax Revision League keeps on "discoverin'" this and that about the operation of our state government, it may result in a lot of folks gettin' "educated" who are not supposed to be and who'd rather be "in the know" than "in the wash" and no foolin'.

But the school problem is sure gonna prove a nice little "side show" for all the aspirin-crazed gentlemen to ride around the state on for the next few months.

Already "educated" it will be "in the know" to "educate" voters on the subject of "education" in the hope that when the battle is over there'll be a new name on the door that's now labeled "Superintendent of Public Instruction." Claude Jones of Arcadia, J. C. English of Ocala and W. H. (Bill) Gies of Tallahassee are the candidates.

are too busy planting beans and they haven't time to worry about who will run for what. The fact is that is coming up for a lot of discussion within the next few weeks is that of representative.

Things I'd like to see: A flock of candidates who would send out paid announcements instead of "news" and rooms of stuff which they expect to get printed free. Arthur Mulvaney when he was out of business—Charles Hester who he wasn't on the job at his filling station—The plant of the Sunshine Canning Corp. in action.

TENTATIVE POTATO ALLOTMENTS FOR 27 COUNTIES ANNOUNCED
GAINESVILLE, Fla.—Tentative allotments for 27 counties in the AAA potato program in Florida were announced this week by R. S. Dennis, assistant director in charge of the program in this state.

Allotments for other counties that are announced as soon as all records and data have been checked and the quantities of potatoes to be sold tax-free are determined, Mr. Dennis said.

Although some adjustment in county allotments will be necessary, many stamps are now being issued to growers who are qualified to sell tax-free potatoes and who are in charge of the program in individual allotments will be made in all counties before any heavy allotment of potatoes begins, Mr. Dennis explained.

Following determination of all county allotments, tentative individual allotments will be made. Growers are now being issued to growers who are qualified to sell tax-free potatoes and who are in charge of the program in individual allotments will be made in all counties before any heavy allotment of potatoes begins, Mr. Dennis explained.

The following tentative county allotments (in bushels of potatoes) for 27 counties, as announced by the district agent: Alachua, 142,157; Lee, 76,978; Hardee, 16,727; Palm Beach, 51,444; Manatee, 17,122; DeSoto, 28,821; Flagler, 28,874; Putnam, 120,497; Clay, 53,162; Broward, 27,683; Hillsborough, 27,683; Alameda, 15,035; Santa Fe, 15,035; Duval, 6,130.

The state allotment in the tentative potato program is 3,087,000 bushels, which is to be divided among counties and individual growers. The order to stay within the bounds of the state allotment, it probably will be necessary to make adjustments in county and individual allotments before the program set-up is complete. From 5 to 10 percent of the tentative county allotments are to be reserved for making adjustments, Mr. Dennis said. He expects the entire program to be completed early in the new year.

The United States has 20 times as many murders as Great Britain. Some day perhaps the government will abandon its effort to restrict production and prices of agricultural products. When it does, instead of the government receiving the blame for conditions the fault will be laid at the door of the weather man and the speculators.

Replace Pessimism In Cancer Control

By Optimism; 24,448 Persons Have Been Cured of Malady

Pessimism no longer has a place in cancer control. The 24,448 individuals who have been cured and have remained free of the disease for from five to twenty-five years during the past 100 years, in view of the increase of volume of purchases for family use, the service has drawn the conclusion that many families have used a large portion of their income increases for family living and for replenishing depleted household inventories. Farmers also seem to be making replacements of capital goods, this being reflected in increased expenditures for automobiles, machinery, and building material.

No significant changes in prices of goods for farm family maintenance is anticipated by the organization during the next six months. With more available money for family living this year, any increase in expenditures probably will be distributed among food, clothing, and other living items, instead of being used for only one or two. Food probably will absorb proportionately less of the increase than it did in 1935.

As in 1935, the cash income of some farm families will be supplemented by earnings of family members during the next six months. With more available money for family living this year, any increase in expenditures probably will be distributed among food, clothing, and other living items, instead of being used for only one or two. Food probably will absorb proportionately less of the increase than it did in 1935.

Prices of clothing, shoes, and some other articles used by farm families may show some slight rise in 1936 over 1935. With rising cash income, the Florida farm family must continue to budget its expenditures and exercise care in allotment of funds to avoid over-expenditure on one thing and failing to provide enough for others.

More families are making long-time plans for the use of total available cash, budgeting funds for farm business and family living and the number of these is expected to show even greater increase in 1936. Budget-making should focus attention on all family needs in addition to financial progress the Extension Service points out.

THE RESPONSIBILITY for curing cancer has been placed on the shoulders of the patient and his family. The patient himself in increasing the total number of cured cases in this country in spite of increasing educational efforts, 80-85 per cent of cancer patients still apply for relief in advanced stages of the disease.

UPWARD TREND WILL CONTINUE IN LIVING CONDITIONS ON FARM

GAINESVILLE, Fla.—Living conditions on Florida farms, which have risen considerably since the low point in 1932, will continue their upward trend in 1936, says the State Agricultural Experiment Station in its Florida agricultural outlook report for this year.

The service predicts that cash income to Florida farm families after meeting production expenses will be slightly higher in 1936 than in any year since 1929. In view of the increase of volume of purchases for family use, the service has drawn the conclusion that many families have used a large portion of their income increases for family living and for replenishing depleted household inventories. Farmers also seem to be making replacements of capital goods, this being reflected in increased expenditures for automobiles, machinery, and building material.

Work Started On South Bay-Chosen Turnpike

SOUTH BAY, Jan. 8.—A crew of workmen started Friday on the WPA project of grading the rim canal dikes road from South Bay to Chosen under the supervision of the State Road department. This project has been the preferred plan for some time so a group of interested citizens were informed that WPA headquarters rechecked the route when they went down to inquire as to why operations had not started.

This section of road is a part of the proposed Bee Line highway which will go directly from Miami up through the center of the state to Lake City. A group of enterprising citizens here have been quietly working for this for several years, Pahokee civic groups are also very active in putting through this project.

It is now understood that the route will be from Miami up the North River canal to South Bay, thence to Pahokee via the Lake City road, then to Chosen, Okaloosa City via Conners highway, thence to Orlando and points north.

Charles M. Branch, field engineer for the state road department, is on the job setting stakes for this road which is to be known as the South Bay-Chosen Turnpike. The grade, when completed, will have a 60-foot base and 30-foot top, Florida.

Branch stated that funds were on hand to complete this road which is estimated to take three months to finish.

Ethiopia's Holy City Older Than Sphinx

Lies In A Sort of Bowl Between Lofly Hills; Mystical Abounds

WASHINGTON, D. C. — What Jerusalem is to the Christians and the Jews, and what Benares is to the Hindus, the city of Aksum, recently called by the Italian forces, is to the Ethiopians. The city lies in a sort of bowl between lofty hills and seems about as ancient as the pyramids.

It was there that all emperors up to the time of Menelik II were crowned, and because the emperors of Ethiopia, like the emperors of Rome, are heads of the church, as well as temporal rulers, the coronation rite was an important ceremony.

It is likely that because of the great amount of publicity which the coronation of the emperor of Ethiopia, the people of the world will learn an increasing amount concerning the country, but now it is a land of mystery.

Aksum is worth seeing to the person interested in the past. It is likely that Aksum, one of the oldest cities in the world, older perhaps than those being excavated at Nineveh and Babylon.

There is preserved what is known as the Book of Aksum. This is a scroll of great antiquity which tells something of the story of the city. Although the Book of Aksum itself is probably one of the oldest of written documents, it speaks of the founding of Aksum thousands of years earlier.

King Solomon can scarcely be regarded as a modern figure, but Aksum was so well established as a capital in his day that it was there the Queen of Sheba, accompanied by a son of the great king, took the Ark of the Covenant for safe keeping. It is declared by the Bible that the Ark was in Aksum, the ancient church to be still there. No testimony has been presented to the contrary.

The Sheikhan floats over the church, as it should if, indeed, the Ark of the Covenant is there. There are so many legends concerning the removal of the ark that one scarcely knows what to believe. There is even one legend to the effect that it turned up once in Brooklyn.

The one church which was burned when Mohammed Grant, the Moslem, who invaded Ethiopia in 1535, took the Holy City. But it was rebuilt shortly afterward. No invader has long been able to stain a foothold in the country of the Conquering Lion of Judah, and Mohammed Grant soon had to leave.

The Portuguese did not hold their kingdom long, but did send peaceful messengers. The King of Portugal had heard that Prester John, the fabulous Christian leader, was to be found in Ethiopia.

Prester John, Dom Manuel, had received a letter purporting to be from Prester John, declaring that the writer wanted to make a pilgrimage to Jerusalem and capture the Holy City from the Saracens. To indicate that he was not a liar, he described how great a prison he was. He declared that he had been subjected to 72 kinds of torture and had been blind for 12 years. He said his dominions extended eastward over India to the rising sun and that the Tower of Babel and the later tomb of St. Thomas were within his boundaries.

In 1482, a letter was sent to him by a Portuguese merchant, who had been born before him as a slave, and had been sold to a Portuguese merchant. He said that there was not a single person in his country, real or imaginary, who could be trusted, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens. He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens.

He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens. He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens. He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens.

He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens. He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens. He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens.

He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens. He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens. He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens.

He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens. He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens. He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens.

He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens. He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens. He said that he was a prisoner of the Saracens, and that he was a prisoner of the Saracens.

"ARE YOU READY FOR THE 1936 RADIO PARADE?"

You can hear it approaching right now. For land motors and bridge experts, presidents and politicians, orchestras and opera are all prepared to reach a new "high" in radio entertainment this year.

Turn your dial and the most dramatic presidential campaign in years will be unfolded right in your living room. Hear the most popular stars of the stage and screen. Get ready for the Derby, the World's Series, international golf and tennis matches, and many other special events of nationwide interest.

Tune to the times! If your set is "acting up" the small price of a repair job will be nothing compared to what you'll miss. Or try a new radio...two years have made a big difference in reception, and you'll be surprised at the improved tones and greater receiving range. Learn the thrill of short wave receiving. You'll find also, that having two radios will settle many an argument when the family is split in selecting a program.

These dealers have a variety of new models, priced to fit your budget. Visit the stores of these dealers or see their displays in your showrooms. We do not sell radios.
